Recent Advances in Geoscience research in India

April 29 and 30, 2021

Department of Geology, University of Delhi, Delhi-110007

Objective:

Over the last several decades the geoscience research in India has moved forward at par with the best in the world. This has been mainly possible due to the massive involvement of the early-career scholars who come with a fresh mind, new ideas, and skills. That enriches our existing knowledge and set the new goals and benefit the society. Keeping this in view, Department of Geology, University of Delhi is organizing a national seminar during 29th-30th April 2021 on “Recent Advances in Geoscience research in India. The seminar will be held completely in virtual mode due to the prevailing pandemic. This would help the geoscience researchers especially early-career scholars to exchange their ideas and skills to excel in their research areas. The deliberations under six major themes of the geoscience by them will set the tone for the future goals and help them to become an independent and successful geoscience researcher and identify their career path. Besides, this seminar will be immensely useful in the dissemination of the information, establish new research links and collaborative research projects, and also improving job prospects in geoscience.

National Seminar on Recent Advances in Geoscience research in India

April 29 and 30, 2021

Department of Geology, University of Delhi, Delhi-110007

About the Department:

The Geology Department of the University was founded by Prof. A. G. Jhingran in 1966. The Geology Department of the University of Delhi is committed to providing the highest levels of education through continuous revisions and expansion of our educational, research, and interactive programs to produce well-trained, competent, academic, and professional geologists capable of scaling new heights in frontiers of geoscience. The addition of new faculties over the years with a diverse field of geoscience expertise has helped us to achieve new highs in teaching and research. At present, the department is rated as one of the best institutions in the country imparting education and research in geological sciences.
