Indian Council for Cultural Relations [ICCR]

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, the first Education Minister of independent India, founded the Indian Council for Cultural Relations (ICCR) on 9th April 1950.

The objectives of the Council are to participate in the formulation and implementation of policies and programmes relating to India's external cultural relations; to foster and strengthen cultural relations and mutual understanding between India and other countries; to promote cultural exchanges with other countries and people; to establish and develop relations with national and international organizations in the field of culture; and to take such measures as may be required to further these objectives.

The ICCR is about a communion of cultures, a creative dialogue with other nations. To facilitate this interaction with world cultures, the Council strives to articulate and demonstrate the diversity and richness of the cultures of India, both in and with other countries of the world.

The Council prides itself on being a pre-eminent institution engaged in cultural diplomacy and the sponsor of intellectual exchanges between India and partner countries. It is the Council's resolve to continue to symbolize India's great cultural and educational efflorescence in the years to come.

Brief Overview Gandhi Study Circle

Gandhi Study Circle of Kalindi College is an active co-curricular society that has evolved into a platform for encouraging alternative thought and action based on Gandhian ideals amongst young students. Over the past few years we have tried to evolve and nurture our students with such critical inputs (Gandhian intellectual supplements), which will go a long way in shaping their moral fabric. We do believe that Gandhi needs to be reinvented in order to celebrate him as a popular youth icon and emphasize on his continued relevance in contemporary times. For the above said objectives, we have embarked on an ambitious plan of action based on several programmes round the year involving students, teachers and non-teaching staff in the college .

Concept Note

Development is a major subject of debate in contemporary times because of the tremendous impact it has, in terms of its consequences over the socio-economic lives of the people in general and political destiny of the nation-states in particular at the international level. As a major objective of the nation-states, developmental pursuits have generated more problems than solutions, thereby throwing challenges to the evolving alternative models of development. The vision of creating an ideal society based on equity and justice through the implementation of developmental goals is often confronted with problems of conflicting interests, which often manifests into civil war or ethnic conflicts. No fruitful economic development can be realized in an atmosphere of conflict and violence, which are inherent in a society, characterized by cultural and regional diversity. Therefore, if true developmental goals are to be achieved, a peaceful, non-violent socio-political cultural order has to be created, which includes removal of social inequalities, maintaining communal harmony, giving women their due share and ensuring people's participation.

The debate on issues of development has of late assumed a new dimension in the wake of the global pandemic that has forced nation-states to revisit their policies and priorities today. Alternative narratives have emerged to offer solutions to existing problems and future challenges.

It is in this context the International E-Conference on 'Revisiting Gandhian Perspectives on Development: Reflections on Culture, Society and Politics', aims to create a forum for scholars and students to deliberate on Gandhian model of inclusive development and how it can be effective in mitigate Post-Covid concerns.

The conference shall aim at creating a platform for academics to explore the possibility of bringing the Gandhian model of economic and social development back in the debate as a possible alternative to modern economic systems based on a globalised world economy.
